6.4 – Financial Management and Resource Mobilization

6.4.1 – Institution conducts internal and external financial audits regularly (with in 100 words each)

Our college functions in 2 shifts. Shift I is aided and shift II is self financed. Our college maintains two separate budgets and two separate annual statements of accounts (one for aided and other for self financing). The aided stream receives funds from the management towards the expenditure of physical and academic support and it is maintained in the self financed stream too. The budget statement and the annual finance statement of accounts of the aided stream consisting of special fees, science deposits, university fees, UGC funds is internally audited and then it is audited by Regional Joint Directorate of Collegiate Education, Vellore and Office of the Principal Accountant General. An accounts committee comprising the Principal, Office superintendent, committee members and a junior staff member is formed. This committee takes the responsibility of making necessary changes in the budget allotment during every financial year. By the end of the financial year, an internal auditing committee consisting of trust auditors, two senior staff members and Office superintendent is formed to • avoid mistakes • point out mistakes and to suggest remedies. • reduce the criticism of auditing authority. The budget and annual finance statements of self financing stream consisting of special fees and general fees accounts, funds received from the management, teaching and nonteaching salary is audited by the trust. So far, during the last five years the audit objection did not rise. If there are queries in future, they have to be analysed and explanation has to be sought from the office superintendent and he has to be given incharge of preparation of explanations supported by relevant documents. Working paper duly supported by relevant support documents will be submitted to the RJD, AGS which leads to the revoking of audit objections.

All the students and the staff are strictly advised to activate power management software in their computers to minimize energy consumption and to put the computer in sleepy mode when not in use. 3. IQAC team minimises the usage of papers by using electronic method for collecting information and data and for sending notices 4. Institution has installed LED'S, for the purpose of conservation of electricity. 5. Various kinds of herbs have been planted in our botanical garden. 6. Survival rate of the plants in the College campus is more than 90 percent 7. Rain Water Harvesting Project is functional in the campus 8. Chemicals are purchased in minimum quantity to save expiry and disposal. 9. Efforts are made to maintain and repair the computers in order to minimize ewastes. 10. Green procedures are adopted in chemistry laboratory 11. Vermicomposting is done in our campus and the process is carried out and monitored by Department of Zoology 12. The campus has been declared as a "Plastic free campus".

7.2 – Best Practices

7.2.1 – Describe at least two institutional best practices

1. Title of the practice: Providing opportunity for all students for making the connection between the unseen microscopic world and the observable macroscopic world through chemistry . The context that required the initiation of the practice • It is essential for both Arts and Science students to explore new ideas in both chemistry and allied fields of science and technology. • Students will be able to explain why chemistry is an integral activity for addressing social, economic, and environmental problems. • It is realised that the students should function as a member of an interdisciplinary problem solving team to emerge as a responsible citizen. Objectives of the practice • The student will understand the interdisciplinary nature of chemistry and to integrate knowledge of mathematics, physics and other disciplines to a wide variety of problems. • The student will develop the ability to effectively communicate scientific information in written and oral formats. • The student will learn professionalism, including the ability to work in teams and apply basic ethical principles. • Developed formal (abstract) thinking skills as well as concrete thinking skills. The Practice The practice is carried out in three phases: Prelab Work Trough questions students will be prompted to review and recall previously learned ideas that is pertinent to the lab experience and through instructions students will learn to plan their actions about their lab procedure. Laboratory Work Simple specific demonstrations related to day to day chemical concepts were done and the students are asked to perform and experience the same in the presence of in charge staff. Samples of demonstrations are given below, Breakdown of Chlorophyll by Cooking Green Vegetables When broccoli, spinach or any other kind of green vegetable is being cooked, it will slowly turn a bright green and then start to fade into a less appetizing brownish green. This is because the vegetables cells are breaking down and releasing acid that in turn denatures the chlorophyll that is responsible for the plants bright green color. Students can determine how long it takes for the chlorophyll in a particular vegetable to be broken down by cooking it for different lengths of time and grading the resulting colors Softening Hard Water As our college is located in the coastal area , tap water is full of minerals that make it difficult to remove soap from dishes or skin because the soap does not dissolve in the water very well. People who live in these areas often use a water softener to make cleaning dishes or taking a shower more efficient. Students can compare the two types of water by making hard water from distilled water, which does not contain any minerals. To do this, take two bottles of distilled water filled halfway and add Epsom salts to one. The use of Epsom salts, or magnesium sulfate, serves to harden the water of one bottle through the addition magnesium. Then add soap to each bottle. Shake both bottles to see which one has more suds. It should be the bottle containing the hard water because less soap has dissolved into the water.

Postlab Work Students will communicate their findings in written and oral formats Impact of the practice The best practice of learning basics of Chemistry, • Makes lifes little mysteries a little less... mysterious. • helps to read and understand product labels. • helps to make informed decisions. (Will a product work as advertised or is it a scam?) • can help to keep one safe! Students will come to know which household chemicals are dangerous to keep together or mix and which can be used safely. • Helps students to understand current events, including news about petroleum, product recalls, pollution, the environment and technological advances. • Opens up career options.. Chemistry applies to the food industry, retail sales, transportation, art, homemaking... any type of work.. • is fun! There are lots of interesting chemistry projects one can do using common everyday materials. Resources required Chemistry Staff , Laboratory , Chemicals, Glassware, LPG, Reference materials.

2. Title of the practice: Building English Vocabulary through Language games for Under graduate students The Context that require the initiation of the practice The Institution which was established in 1967 to cater to the needs of the women students hailing from socially and economically backward students aims at empowering them through education. Most of the students are from rural areas and their language proficiency is not at par with candidates who compete with them in interviews and competitive exams when they complete their degree courses. All the students, irrespective of the major are in need of better communicative skills to make best use of their knowledge gained during the course of their learning. So, Department of English decided to increase their communicative skills by improving their vocabulary.

Objectives of the practice 1. To improve vocabulary skills through LSRW 2. To develop dictionary skills 3. Creating awareness of the heterogeneous of English language 4. Use of language games to sustain their interest while learning The practice All the first year students are given an entry level proficiency test of dictation, writing synonyms and antonyms for simple/difficult word to judge their entry level of vocabulary skills. Based on the screening test , the students are identified as advanced learners and slow learners. Strategies used for development of vocabulary skills Students are encouraged to read simple story books(for slow learners) and classics for advanced learners Students are asked to use dictionary to find meaning for unknown words Simple vocabulary building games are used in the class. Hangman (2 students) Hangman is a classic word game for two players. One player thinks of a word and writes down dashes to represent the number of letters. The other guesses letters of the alphabet. Correct letters are inserted into the word incorrect letters result in another segment of the "hangman" being drawn. Crosswords (Individual) A crossword is a grid of white and black squares, where each white square is one letter of a word. The words intersect. Most of the games have straight forward clues. Some crosswords are "cryptic": Crosswords are useful to learn new words and definitions, Word searches (Individual) A word search has a grid (often 10×10 or more) filled with letters, and a number of words written alongside or beneath the grid. The student completing the word search needs to find those words within the grid. Most word searches are easy enough for children, though the students struggle with backward and diagonal words. They're a good way to get used to letter patterns and to improve spelling - and because word searches rely on matching letters, even children who can't read well will be able to complete simple ones. Consequences (2 players, ideally 4) This is a fun game with a group of students. Each player writes down one line of a story and folds the paper over before passing it around the table to the next player. After a few turns, the players open out the papers and read out the results. This can be great for sparking ideas, or as a way to encourage reluctant writers to have a go.

Bulls and Cows (2 players) This game, which can also be called "Mastermind" or "Jotto" involves one player thinking up a secret word of a set number of letters. The second player guesses a word the first player tells them how many letters match in the right position (bulls) and how many letters are correct but in the wrong position (cows). It helps to develop spelling as well as logical thinking about which letters can or can't be the correct ones after a few guesses.

Obstacles faced As it is not part of their syllabus, the students are reluctant to participate if the difficulty level of the games is more challenging. It is more challenging for the teachers to organize word games in large classrooms.

Impact of the practice

- The students are given exit level test by the end of their fourth semester.
- Analysis of the entry /exit tests shows that there is a remarkable development in their communicative skills
- The students are able to express their ideas and knowledge more precisely and confidently.
- They have developed interest in word games and reading books and it is observed that the students play word games and read books without being insisted by the teachers.

Resources required Newspapers/ Journals/Magazines Net resources Simple Story books Classics

HERBAL GARDEN AT C.KANDASWAMI NAIDU COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, CUDDALORE

THE NEED OF A HERBAL GARDEN Our country is rich in diverse flora of medicinal importance. In our region, western ghats are rich in plant communities. The available medicinal and aromatic plants are invaluable biological resource, closely associated with health care, cuisine, traditions and culture. Traditional knowledge about the plants and their uses has been handed down by word of mouth from generation to generation. According to world Health Organization some 80 of the world's people use herbs as their main form of medical treatment.. But with the change in lifestyles, the younger generation is losing this knowledge. We urgently need to help youngsters to learn about the fascinating world of herbal plants, their uses, and the joy of seeing them grow and using them.

OBJECTIVES

- Promoting Herbal Gardens in our college was an initiative started to help students, teachers, and families learn about, and recognise the importance of the herbal plants that are part of our everyday life.
- To encourage students to use herbs in food and health.
- To popularize the usefulness of commonly available and frequently used herbal plants and to conserve the associated traditional knowledge for future generations, in a fun and practical way

GARDEN AT OUR COLLEGE With these objectives in mind, a lush green, herbal garden was developed inside our college campus. More than 60 plants of medicinal importance are grown here.. Each and every plant has a descriptive placard bearing its common name, binomial name, family are uses .We also aim to increase the number of plant species. The task of making the garden itself has been enriching in terms of making students realize the importance of team work such as detailed planning, and allocation of tasks within a team. Another point of importance is Medicinal Botany and Herbal Science are the papers included in the syllabus for UG course. Motivation, enthusiasm, and appreciation go a long way! Some of the medicinal plants in our garden are

- Acemella oleracea
- Coleus aromaticus
- Hemidesmus indicus
- Calotropis procera

• Alternanthera sessilis • Alpinia galanga • Ipomoea obscura • Vitex negundo • Ocimum basilicum • Ocimum sanctum • Sauropus androgynus CONCLUSION An herbal garden reflects the long? standing tradition of conserving and using plant products for health care and cooking. Gardening may be done with virtually no economic resources, using locally available planting materials, green manures, live fencing and indigenous methods of pest control. Thus, herbal gardening is not only for therapeutic purpose ,but at some level is a production system that the poor can easily enter and also contributes to the food security.
